

Dealers Learn about the Benefits of Architectural Columns in Building Products Digest Magazine

An article on how to sell architectural columns featuring Crown Column & Millwork was published in the May 2008 edition of Building Products Digest. In the article, Crown Column & Millwork's vice president and general manager Joe Livengood, discusses how wrapping structural posts with decorative columns maintains a great-room feel and is a stylish way to make the most out of available floor space. Livengood also discusses how cellular PVC columns, with their architectural styling and nearly endless detail options, are an ideal and cost-effective way to add elegance to building exteriors.